Price revision for high zirconia fused cast refractories

Dear valued customers,

We would like to express our gratitude for your continued support.

Due to the recent global rise in prices, various costs, including raw material prices and electricity cost, have been on a long-term upward trend. These rising costs have significantly impacted the production of our main product, fused cast refractories.

While we have made every possible effort to absorb these increases through cost reductions and productivity improvements, it has become increasingly difficult to maintain current prices through company efforts alone. After careful consideration, we have made the difficult decision to revise our prices as detailed below.

We kindly ask for your understanding and continued support.

Effective date: Orders placed after August 1, 2025

Products: All high zirconia fused cast refractories ZB-X950 series

Price adjustment: Approx. +20%

We will continue to strive to improve our products and services to satisfy our customers.

Thank you for your understanding and continued support.

Sincerely,
